Let's Start!

To each their own ... I suppose.

Learning Outcome

Describe characteristics of different people and their jobs.

Ask your partner:

- What kind of person are you? Describe yourself in three words.
- What qualities do you look for in a boyfriend/girlfriend?

Can Do Statements

- I can agree and disagree tactfully.
- I can describe people's personality.
- I can talk about things, actions and events in the future.

Let's Explore!

Sally and Vanessa chat about men. What is Sally's type?

* "Type" refers to the qualities that you look for in another person.

Instructions: Read the text aloud.

- Sally: Hey, Vanessa! How are things with you?
Vanessa: Hi, Sally. Things are good. Work is really busy. What's up with you?
Sally: I'm traveling around the Middle East at the moment. The men here are so hot!
Vanessa: Tell me more!
Sally: They're all dark and handsome. Just my type! They are a little too forward, though.
Vanessa: Oh, I like it when men are direct and honest about what they want.
Sally: I don't know about that ... a little mystery is exciting, too. I like my men mysterious and a little shy.
Vanessa : I see what you're saying but I prefer to know how they feel and what they're thinking!
Sally: To each their own, I suppose. What will you do tomorrow?
Vanessa: I might go shopping ... I'll decide in the morning. You?
Sally: I may do some shopping, too. I'd like to get some souvenirs.

Let's Practice!

I don't agree!

Instructions: Draw a line from the first part of the statement on the left to the second part on the right.

I see what you're saying,

a little mystery is exciting, too.

I don't know about that ...

I feel.

I couldn't agree

but I prefer to know how they feel.

No, I'm not so

with you more.

You're absolutely right.

That's exactly how sure about that.

Let's Practice!

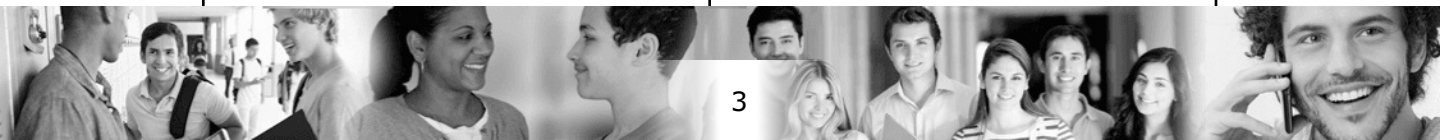

What is your type? To each their own, I suppose.

Instructions: Write the words in the correct category.

Learning Points

Talking About the Future

You use the Future tense (will) to talk about actions in the future. You can also use the modals might and may to talk about possible actions in the future.

The auxiliary will goes before the verb. The short form is 'll.

You use the Future tense when you talk about the future, make offers or make predictions.

The modals might and may go before the verb.

They talk about future possibility or chance that something will happen.

Might means there is a smaller chance that something will happen (30%).

May means there is a slightly greater chance that something will happen (50%).

Examples:

- I'll decide in the morning.
- I might go shopping.
- I may go shopping, too. I'm free.

Agreeing and Disagreeing Tactfully

You use different phrases to agree and disagree tactfully (politely).
Look at the chart below.

Agreeing	Disagreeing
I agree with you 100 percent.	I don't think so.
I couldn't agree with you more.	I'm afraid I disagree.
That's so true.	I'm afraid I don't agree.
You're absolutely right.	Not necessarily.
Absolutely.	That's not always true.
That's exactly how I feel.	No, I'm not so sure about that.
Exactly.	I see what you're saying, but ...
You have a point there.	I don't know about that ...
